Leadership, with all its outward-facing responsibilities, ultimately leads us inward. It is our understanding of who we are that enables us to contribute our full gifts. It is our capacity to be with all we are – our light and our shadow – that enables us to grow into our wholeness through leadership’s pressures.

Hyeon-Ju supports leaders to navigate the challenges and opportunities of leadership in a way that is authentic to them and grows from their unique voice and vision. She creates space in which leaders can be honest and unedited, think and imagine freely, and be themselves – all necessary conditions for learning, growing, and creating their best work. Hyeon-Ju meets clients where they are and at the same time holds them to their highest vision for their growth. She works with individual executives as well as with teams.

Hyeon-Ju holds coaching certifications from the International Coach Federation and The Coaches Training Institute. She has a J.D. from New York University School of Law and a B.A. in English Literature from Swarthmore College.

Hyeon-Ju has a deep commitment to the empowerment of women leaders and leaders of color. For over a decade prior to her coaching career, she was a civil rights attorney and director of advocacy organizations focusing on racial equity, economic justice, and the rights of underrepresented groups. She began her professional life as a trial attorney at the U.S. Department of Justice Civil Rights Division.
